SUCCESS

Is the term we use to describe our ten days' sale which closed with a good business Monday, May 29. Considering the weather we have been having and this season of the year, we consider our sale just held a success from many standpoints. In the first place we sold lots of goods, really more than we expected to sell, but the two real objects we had in view were to rid ourselves of as many seasonable goods as possible while it was yet time, and the most important of all, to meet and become acquainted both in a social and business way, with more people in town and in the country. We feel quite a satisfaction in saying that we have through our sale and the courtesy of Miss Currie and Messrs Taylor and Wilson, who have been with us, met and sold goods to many good people who were never before in our store. We wish to say that we thank both our already customers and new ones very much, and kindly ask a continuation of your business, promising at all times to serve you in the very best possible manner in quality of goods, prices and treatment.

THE VENEZUELAN FINANCES

Message of President Castro to the Congress of the South American Republic.

THE TERMS OF PROTOCOL EXECUTED

Declines Responsibility for Differences With United States Government—Demands of Minister Bowen Could Not be Granted Without Involving Independence of the Republic.

Caracas, Venezuela, June 3.—President Castro read his message to Congress Thursday. He said in part that the Venezuelan government had maintained good relations with foreign countries in the degree their respective representatives desired. Therefore the relations of Venezuela with all countries were relatively cordial. The government has acceded to the desires of the respective representatives of foreign countries as far as justice, equity and the dignity and honor of the nation permitted. On the other hand Venezuela had duly paid the allies the amounts peremptorily demanded by them and had then paid them 30 per cent of the customs duties collected at La Guaira and Puerto Cabello. When the claims of the allies had been paid the 30 per cent of the customs duties of La Guaira and Puerto Cabello would be devoted to the payment of the claims of the other powers which had been presented pacifically. In regard to the debts of Venezuela other than the claims of the powers previously referred to the government of Venezuela had twice sent Gen. Jose Antonio Velutini to Europe to make new arrangements with her creditors.

Continuing the president said: "I have the satisfaction to announce that such arrangements have already been made, and that the agreements have been signed and that the arrangement relating to the discount bank of Berlin has been ratified by the German government. As soon as it is ratified here Gen. Velutini hopes that the British government will also ratify the new arrangement made for the payment of the British debt. I consider this matter to have been definitely settled with the German and British holders of Venezuelan bonds. These measures are exceedingly important to the credit of Venezuela and in promoting tranquility and harmony with foreign nations. Venezuela, it will therefore be seen, is strictly executing the terms of the protocol.

"With the United States, through causes foreign to our will and without the least responsibility on our part, we have had a slight difference but the discussion of the questions seems to have made the facts clear to the American government judging from the measures the said government lately passed in favor of our good and cordial friendship. Those questions refer to the Bermudez and Orinoco companies. The latter have already been adjudged under the protocols, but nevertheless Mr. Bowen desired a new arbitration. The government could not accede to this as the sovereignty and independence of the republic were involved."

In conclusion the president expressed the hope that diplomatic relations between Venezuela and Colombia would be renewed at an earlier date.

MIX-UP IN LEGAL DEPARTMENT

Question of Who Will Try the Oregon Land Fraud Cases May Still be Open

Washington, June 3.—The designation by Judge William B. Gilbert of the Ninth circuit, of Judge John de Haven of the Northern district of California as presiding judge in the trial of the land fraud cases in Oregon has led to some embarrassment among officials here. The recent death of Judge Bellinger, who was to have tried these cases, caused a vacancy in the Oregon district. It practically had been determined by the president and the attorney general that Judge Hunt, United States judge of the district of Montana, should succeed Judge Bellinger, in the trials, and that the appointment of Judge Bellinger's successor should not be made immediately. At this point Judge Gilbert, exercising authority which he supposed he had, directed that Judge de Haven should try the cases. This was displeasing to officials of the department of justice and a telegram was sent to Judge Gilbert by Attorney General Moody inquiring by what authority he had directed Judge de Haven to act in this manner. Thus far no reply has been received to that telegram. What the result of the situation will be is uncertain, and whether the action of Judge Gilbert will be overruled may depend on the reply he makes to the attorney general's inquiry.

CALIFORNIA LAND FRAUDS.
Discovery of Elaborate System of Robbery in the Northern Counties of the State.

San Francisco, June 3.—The story of the land frauds in Oregon will be duplicated in California by the discovery of an elaborate system of robbery under color of law, by which means, with the help of forged, great bodies of the public domain in Modoc and other northern counties have been brought under private ownership. In many instances this process has been worked out by means of dummy locators, but in some cases of which the examiner has proofs the land thieves, grown bold by impunity, have forged names of applicants on the files of the surveyor general's office. Lien land selections furnish what lawyers call the "base" for the fraudulent locations in the northern mountain counties.

Circus Performer Hurt.
Itasca, N. Y., June 3.—Miss Mary Rhodes of Maysville, Ky., with a circus, received serious injuries today doing her aerial act at Cortland Thursday night. By the breaking of a toe strap she shot head first 60 feet through the air into the reserved seats, landing on her head and shoulders. She was placed in the hospital here.

N. D. Commencement Begins.
Lawrence, Kan., June 3.—The 35th annual commencement exercises at the University of Kansas began in University hall here with the annual concert by the school of fine arts. There was a large audience in attendance and the different numbers were well rendered and well received.

NEBOGATOFF IS CENSURED

Epithet of "Coward" and "Traitor" Applied to the Lieutenant of Rojestvensky.

RUSSIANS HEAR THE TRUTH AT LAST

All Censorship Removed From Foreign Dispatches—People are Appalled at Slaughter on Russian Ships—Ugly Stories Circulating Regarding Treachery of Crews of Several Vessels.

St. Petersburg, June 3.—The Russian press still is advocating more vigorously than ever the summoning of a national assembly, even the reactionary Soviet joining in the general chorus. In view of the current rumors, it is most significant that the papers which are more or less in the confidence of the government unanimously take the position that representatives of the people should decide the question of peace and war.

All censorship is now removed from foreign dispatches and the people are appalled at the horrible stories of slaughter on board the Russian ships. The admiralty has not yet been able to estimate even approximately from the foreign advices the loss of men but as the ships were over, rather than under, manned, the total would probably and probably will exceed 10,000 if only about 4,000 were saved.

Requiem masses are being celebrated constantly in all the churches and chapels for the repose of the souls of the slain although the distracted relatives are unable to learn definitely the fate of those dear to them. The admiralty up to the present time has been unable to throw any light on the situation except to announce the safety of those who have reached Vladivostok. Ugly stories are circulating in this city of the demoralization and even treachery of the crews of several of the Russian ships during the battle and it is even said that the crew of the battleship Orel bound their officers and hoisted the white flag. The origin of these stories which are discredited by all naval men cannot be traced as the only direct information comes from Japan, but doubtless they are based on the trouble among the crew of the Orel before her departure for the Far East. She was sunk at her dock before she left Cronstadt and later at Lipan the crew were mutinous. Indignation against Rear Admiral Nebogatoff is growing. The epithets "coward" and "traitor" are coupled with his name, especially since the receipt of the Tokyo dispatches showing that his surrender was not in the heat of battle but with the land close under his lee to which his crews could have escaped after the destruction of the ships.

Conservative Russians are alarmed at the possibility of disorders in various parts of Russia as the result of the disaster and a feeling of disquietude for the future is manifested everywhere.

SERVIA THREATENS TURKEY.

Notifies the Sultan That Her Minister Will be Recalled Unless Satisfaction for Indignities is Given.

Constantinople, June 3.—Servia has notified Turkey that she will recall her minister from Constantinople unless satisfaction is given by June 12 for the recent violation of the Servian consulate at Monastir (Macedonia). It appears that the local police searched the consulate and seized certain papers. Servia demands the dismissal and further punishment of the chief of police and that official visit be paid to the consulate by the governor of Monastir with an expression of regret on the part of the government for the occurrence.

Oil in the Ozarks.

Bakersfield, Mo., June 3.—Oil has been discovered near here in two wells. The first find was by a farmer who was drilling for water and the second was by E. R. Cook, the Howell county representative in the legislature, who has options on 3,000 acres in the neighborhood. This is the first oil discovered in the Ozarks and much excitement prevails.

Bought Oklahoma Military School.

Oklahoma City, Ok., June 3.—Iowa and Illinois capitalists have purchased a controlling interest in the Oklahoma State Military institute and will expend a large sum for additional buildings and houses for members of the faculty. The school will be known in the future as the Capital University and Military academy.

Indicted For Zeigler Explosion.

Springfield, Ill., June 3.—Word was received Friday by the state bureau of labor statistics that the grand jury of Franklin county, in session at Benton, has returned four indictments in connection with the explosion at the Zeigler mine. The charge is violation of the mining laws of the state. The names of the indicted were not made public.

FRUITS OF TOGO'S VICTORY

No Limit Now to Japan's Offensive Operation Against Russia's Maritime Provinces.

MILITARY SITUATION GREATLY CHANGED

Czar's Defensive Capabilities Now Limited to Chinese Siberian Railway—Loss of Russian Cruiser Jemchug Officially Confirmed—Cassini Confers With President Roosevelt.

Tokio, June 3.—With the destruction of Russia's naval power interest is returning to military operations on land. Togo's victory tremendously alters the military situation and removes all limits to offensive operations against Russia's maritime provinces. It is now possible to effectively close Vladivostok, seize Sakhalin the mouth of the Amur river, Kamchatka and any point between the Tumen river and the Arctic circle that the Japanese may desire.

A foreign military observer discussing the question with the correspondent of the Associated press says: "Togo's victory may drive Russia away from the Pacific coast of Asia. Japan now has a free hand in Russia's maritime provinces and her offensive capability is unlimited. Nothing bars the way except the Russian force at Vladivostok, whose speedy isolation is possible. The Amur river is open to Japan and Russia's defensive capability is now entirely limited to the capacity of the Chinese-Siberian railway."

The Jemchug was Sunk.

Tokio, June 3.—Admiral Togo, telegraphing Friday says: "The ships sent northward to search for Russian ships have returned. The cruisers Iwate and Yakumo and other vessels sent southward to find Russian ships have also returned. They thoroughly searched the Shanghai course from Fushima and vicinity, but on both sides found no trace of the Russians." Admiral Shimamura, on board the cruiser Iwate, reports: "During the battle on May 27, at 3:07 p. m. the cruiser Iwate vigorously attacked the protected cruiser Jemchug at a distance of 3,000 metres. The Jemchug sank in one minute. The loss of the Jemchug is therefore confirmed. During the engagement fire broke out on the Jemchug and smoke concealed the hull of the vessel. Consequently the remainder of our fleet was unable to see the ship."

Cassini at the White House.

Washington, June 3.—Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, had an appointment with the president for 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon. It is understood they discussed the entire Eastern situation in the light of recent developments.

Washington, June 3.—The investigation of the charges against Arthur W. Brewster, postmaster of St. Joseph, Mo., has resulted in his complete exoneration. Not one of the charges, which were varied, was sustained, and the case is closed absolutely.

Asks $10,000 for False Imprisonment.

JUNE brides are in season now —also June bugs.

It hasn't rained for four days and the streets are getting dusty —don't kick.

WE can't understand why forty women should fall in love with Johann Hoch; that is if his pictures do him justice.

Our truckgrowers are complaining about the potatoes rotting in the ground on account of too much rain. This is a remarkable proposition at the potatoes have eyes and should see how to get in out of the wet.

THE mass convention to be held at Ada July 5 for the selecting of twenty delegates to attend the single statehood convention at Oklahoma City on July 12, should be the largest gathering ever held in Ada. On these dates we declare before the world our wishes as regards statehood and we should be there to speak our sentiments.

JUST because a few buffalo are to be given a warming up and a mock raid upon a wagon train by Indians is to be pulled off at the 101 ranch in Oklahoma, the Massachusetts editors have signified their intention of not attending. These gentlemen should be allowed to visit Abilene, Texas, and participate in a genuine badger fight, and ten to one they would enjoy a buffalo show ever afterwards.

Enid, Ok., June 3.—At a dog and badger fight at the fair grounds in this city on Decoration Day, James Brady, aged 28 was struck on the head with a piece of gas pipe, from the effects of which he died last night. The skull was badly fractured trepan-ning was tried, but it failed to save his life. He never regained consciousness.

Emory Mulligan is under arrest and another man is a fugitive, both being charged with murder.

Throat was Cut.

Muskogee, I. T., June 3.—It is reported here that Silas Estell who lives on a lease near Broken Arrow has been found dead by the roadside. His throat had

CREEK TRIBAL TAX.

Attempt to Enforce Payment Results in Arrest of Police.

Muskogee, I. T., June 3.—An attempt to enforce payment of Creek tribal tax here Friday resulted in the arrest of Capt. John C. West, Lieut. Alf McKay and six Indian police. The men are charged in affidavits sworn out by citizens with assault and battery and the warrants were served by Chief of Police Hans Carter of the force.

Indian Inspector J. G. Wright issued an order directing John West, captain of the United States Indian police, to close half a dozen business houses that had refused to pay the tax.

The order prior to this had been submitted to J. F. Wisdom, acting Indian agent, for his signature, but he refused to sign it, and was immediately suspended. Mr. Wright then conferred with William Mellette, and as special representative of the interior department, issued the order.

The store of the Patterson Mercantile Co., one of the largest establishments in the city, and the drug store of H. C. Cobb & Co., adjoining on Main street, were taken in charge by the Indian police, while others were to be placed under guard as soon as the men arrived. Before this could be done several citizens who had attempted to enter the Patterson store were promptly ejected by the Indian police who were on guard at the doors. No effort was made to close the doors, but a detail of men was stationed at each store to prevent the sale of goods. The prisoners were sent to the police court, where Mayor Fite was awaiting their coming, and soon after the men were arrested the trial of Capt. West was begun.

William Mellette, United States district attorney, appeared for the Indian police, while the counsel for the citizens was G.
A. Murphy, Thomas Owen and William Bailey. After hearing the testimony the case was adjournd until Saturday morning.
Much uneasiness is expressed in certain quarters for fear the secretary of the interior may retaliate by ordering the agent removed to South McAlester.
That the secretary is very much displeased with the result of the effort to force the payment of the tax is apparent from the strong effort made by Inspector Wright in behalf of the police when they were arrested.

FRANCE DENIES REPORTS.

Her Minister to St. Petersburg Still at Paris —Has Issued no Appeal to Powers.

Paris, June 3.—The report that M.
Bompard, the French ambassador to Russia, who has been here on leave of absence, is hastening back to St.
Petersburg as France has agreed to ask the concert of the powers to bring about peace between Russia and Japan, is said by the officials here to be incorrect. M. Bompard, it appears, is not returning to St. Petersburg. He attended the reception given by President Loubet Thursday night in honor of King Alfonso, where Mr. McCors-mick, the American ambassador, had a long talk with the French ambassador. Mr. Bompard intends to remain here a week or ten days which would seem to confirm the reports that the peace situation at St. Petersburg has not reached a decisive stage. There is reason to believe that he shares the views of other diplomats having personal acquaintance with the Russian officials that the peace outlook is not bright. The trend of opinion in this well-informed quarter is that Russia will put off decisive action until after the next land battle. In the meantime it is anticipated that tentative peace projects are likely to be put forward from various sources leading to more or less something among the powers but diplomatic circles here are satisfied that these movements will not eventuate while Gen. Linévitch's forces remain intact. However, it is said that the departure of the Grand Duke Michael (brother of Emperor Nicholas) to attend the wedding at Berlin of Crown Prince Frederick William may prove an important factor in the peace situation.

The following official note was issued Friday: "M. Bompard is still in Paris. Therefore it is not true that he has been recalled to St. Petersburg.
It is equally incorrect that France has addressed an appeal to the powers with the view of consulting them on the situation."

PECKS BAD BOY ABROAD

The Bad Boy and His Dad Visit the Pope—They Bow to the King of Italy and His Nine Spots—Dad Finds That "The Catacombs" Is Not a Comic Opera.

BY HON. GEORGE W. PECK.

(Copyright, 1905, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Rome, Italy.—Dear Old Friend: You remember, don't you, when you were a boy playing "tag, you're it," and "button, button, who's got the button?" that one of the trying situations was to be judged to "go to Rome," which meant that you were to kiss every girl in the room.

I never got enough "going to Rome" when I attended church societies and parties, but always got blindfolded, and had to kiss anybody they brought to me, which was usually a boy or a colored cook, so I teased dad to take me to Rome, and when he got over his being rattled and robbed and burned by lava at Vesuvius, he said he didn't care where he went, and, besides, I told him about the Roman Coliseum, where they turned hungry tigers, and lions, and hyenas loose among the gladiators, and the people could see the beasts eat them alive, and dad said that was something like it, as the way he had been robbed and misused in Italy, he would enjoy seeing a good share of the population chewed by lions, if the lions could stand it. I didn't tell dad that the wild animal show had not been running for a couple of thousand years, "cause I thought he would find it out when we got here.

Say, old man, I guess I can help you to locate Rome. You remember the time I spoke a piece at the school exhibition, when I put my hand inside my flannel shirt, like an orator, and said, "And this is Rome, that sat on her seven hills, and from her throne of beauty ruled the whole world." Well, this is it, where I am now, but the seven hills have been graded down and Rome don't rule the whole world a little bit, but she has got religion awful.

The pope lives here, and he is the boss of more religious people than anybody, and though you may belong to any other kind of church, and when you are home you don't care a continental for any religion except your own, or your wife's religion, and you act like an infidel, and scoff at good people,

ple, when you get to Rome and see the churches thicker than saloons in Milwaukee, and everybody attending church and looking pious, you catch the fever, and try to forget bad things you have done, and if you get a chance to see the pope, you may go to his palace just 'cause you want to see everything that is going on, and you think you don't care whether school keeps or not, and you feel independent, as though this religion was something for weak people to indulge in, and finally you come face to face with the pope, and see his beautiful face, and his grand eyes, and his every movement is full of pious meaning, you "penuk" right there, and want to kneel down and let him bless you, by gosh.

Say, I never saw dad weaken like he did when the pope came in. We got tickets to go to his reception, but dad said he had rather go to the catacombs, or the lion show at the Coliseum. He said he didn't want to encourage popes, because he didn't believe they amounted to any more than presiding elders at home. He said he had always been a Baptist, and they didn't have any popes in his church, and he didn't believe in 'em, but some other Americans were going to see the pope, and dad consented to go, under protest. It being understood that he didn't care two whoops, anyway.

Well, sir, we went, and it was the grandest thing you ever saw. There were guards by the thousand, beautiful gardens that would make Central park look like a hay marsh, hundreds of people in church vestments, and an air of sanctity that we never dreamed, jewels that are never seen outside the pope's residence, and we lined up to see the holy father pass.

Gee, but "dad trembled like a dog tied out in the snow, and the perspiration stood out on his face, and he looked sorry for himself. Then came the procession, all nobles and great people, and then there was a party of pious men carrying the most beautiful man we ever saw on a platform above us, and it was the pope, and he smiled at me, and the tears came to my eyes, and I couldn't swallow something which I suppose was my sin, and then he looked at dad, and held up one hand, and dad was pale, and there was no funny business about dad any more, and then they set the platform down, and the pope sat in a chair, and those who wanted to went up to him, and he blessed them.

Say, for awhile dad dassent go up, 'cause he thought the pope could see right through him, and would know he was a Baptist, but the rest of the Americans were going up, and dad didn't want to be eccentric, so he and I went up. The pope put out his hand to dad, and instead of shaking it, as he would the hand of any other man on earth, and asking how his folks were, dad bent over, and kissed the pope's hand, and the pope blessed him. Dad looked like a new man, a good man, and when the pope put his hand on my head, and blessed me, my heart came up in my throat, 'cause I thought he must know of all the mean things I had ever done, but I can feel his soft, beautiful hand on my head now, and from this out I would fight any boy twice my size that ever said a word against the pope and his religion. When we got outside dad says to me: "Hennery, don't you ever let me hear of your doing a thing that would make the good man sorry if he was to hear about it." And we went to our hotel and stayed all the afternoon, and all night, and just thought of that pope's angelic face, and when one of the Americans came to our room and wanted dad to play chess, he was indignant, and said: "I would as soon think of robbing a child's tank," and we went to bed, and if dad wasn't a converted man I never saw one.

Well, sir, trouble, and sorrow, and religion, don't last very long on dad. The next morning we talked things over, and I quoted all the Roman stuff I could think of to dad, such as "In that elder day, to be a Roman was greater than a king," but before I could think twice there was a commotion in the streets, and a porter came and made us take of our hats, because the king was riding by, and we looked at the king, and dad was not. He said that fellow was nothing but a railroad hand, disguised in a uniform, and, by gosh, if we had seen that king out west working on a railroad, with canvas clothes on, he would not have looked like a king, on a bet. There was nothing but his good clothes that stood between the king and a cargo digging sewers in Chicago.

SAY, FOR AWHILE DAD DASSENT GO UP.

After the king and his nine spots had passed, dad said: "When you are in Rome, you must go to the Romanus de," and he said he wanted to get that heavy feeling off his shoulders, which he got at the religious procession, and wanted me to suggest something devilish that we could do, and I told him we better go and see the "Catacombs." He wanted to know if it was anything like "a trip to Chinatown," or the "Black Crook," and I told him it was worse. Then he asked me if there was much low neck and long stockings in the "Catacombs," and I told him there was a plenty, and he said he was just ripe to see that kind of a show, and so we took a carriage for the "Catacombs," and dad could hardly keep still till we got there.

I suppose I ought to be killed for fooling dad, but he craved for excitement, and he got it. The "Catacombs" are where Roman citizens have been buried for thousands of years, in graves hewn out of solid rock, and they are petrified, and after they have laid in the graves for a few hundred years, the mummified bodies are taken out and stood up in corners, if the bodies will hang together, and if not the bones are piled up around for scenery.

We had to take torches to go in, and we wandered through corridors, gazing at the remains, until dad asked one of the men with us what it all meant, and the man said it was the greatest show on earth. Dad began to think he was nutty, and when I laughed, and said: "That is great," and clapped my hands, and said: "Encore," dad stopped and said: "Hennery, this is no log show, this is a morgue," but to cheer him up I told him his head must be wrong, and I pointed to about a hundred dried corpses, a thousand years old, in a corner, with grinning skulls all around, and told him that was the ballet, and told him to look at the leading dancer, and asked him if she wasn't a beauty, from Butte, Mont., and that killed dad. He leaned against me, and said his eyes must have gone back on him, because everything looked dead to him. I told him he would get over it after awhile, and to stay where he was while I went and spoke to one of the ballet that was beckoning to me, and I left him there, cazed, and went around a corner and hid.

People were coming along with torches, all the time, looking at the catacombs, and reading the inscriptions cut in the rock, and after awhile I went back to where I left dad, and he was gone, but after awhile I found him standing up with the stiffs. He was glad to see me, and wanted to know if I thought he was dead. I told him I was sure he was alive, though he had a deathly look on his face. "Well, sir," says dad, "I thought it was all over with me, after you left, for a man came along, and moved me around, and took hold under my arms and jumped me along here by these stiffs, and told me if I didn't stay where I belonged he would break me up into lones, and throw me into a pile, and I thought I would have to do as the Romans do and stay here, and before the man left he reached into my pocket and took my money, and said I couldn't spend any money in there, where I was going to stay for a million years, and, by gosh, I was so petrified I couldn't stop him from robbing me. Say, Hennery, they will rot you anywhere, even in the grave, and if this Catacomb show is over, and the curtain has gone down, I want to get out of here, and go to the Coliseum or the Roman amphitheater, where the wild beasts eat people alive." And so we left the Catacombs, and went back to town, and dad began to show life again.

Say, you tell the folks at home that dad is gaining every day, and his vacation is doing him good. He has promised to kill me for talking him to the Catacomb show, but dad never harbors revenge for long, and I guess your little nephew will pull through. I wish I had my skates, 'cause dad wants to go to Russia. Yours,
